

Weekly Blog 5/13/19

4th Grade Parents...

We are in the final few weeks of school! Just a reminder that EOGs will start the week we get back from Memorial Day. I am planning on having an "End of Year" party for students after EOGs...more to come on that (it will be after EOGs).

I would like to personally thank my students and parents for showing me love during Teacher Appreciation Week - from the sweet gifts, kind words, and volunteered time! I appreciate you all and what you do!

English Language Arts: We finished all of our CKLA units last week (yay!) so there will be no more vocabulary words for the remainder of the year. We will still work on vocabulary each day, but they will not have a test on specific words each Friday. We will continue to build vocabulary and practice reading comprehension strategies. We will also start a new novel - One Crazy Summer by Rita Williams-Garcia. This will take the place of our daily CKLA lessons.

Math: We are finishing our last Ready Math unit which is symmetry. We are also working on reviewing two digit multiplication and answering multi-step math problems during remediation.

Science: Students will be moving on from the Water Cycle to learning about different weather patterns, specifically what happens when different air masses meet.

Social Studies: Students will be learning about the life and impact of President Andrew Jackson.

Folders/Homework: This will be the last week students will have a reading passage sent home for homework. Don't forget to send in your encouragement letter for your child to read before taking EOGs.

